

May 9, 1778, he deeded land in East Hampton to his son Isaac, and in 1795, another parcel to his son Willard.

"Many personal anecdotes are related of him. He was a man of large frame, tall and muscular, with a mind fitted for the body it inhabited, filled with a spirit of enterprise, and reckless of danger. After the war of the Revolution broke out, he equipped a vessel which he commanded himself, and which preyed on the British convoys. His vessel was captured by a British ship, and he with one of his men, were made prisoners and confined on board. From what he heard and saw, he suspected that preparations were making for their summary execution in the morning. He expressed his suspicions to his man, and prepared to escape and swim ashore. His man thought the attempt dangerous, desperate, but Sears replied, 'I would rather trust my neck in the water than the rope.' About midnight they eluded the sleepy guard, and let themselves down into the water, but were soon discovered, and fired upon from the ship. Sears reached the shore, but his man gave out. He took a boat, went out and picked him up, and both escaped in safety. Nothing daunted by his hair-breadth escape, he went to work immediately to fit out another vessel. After the war he became actively engaged in mechanical and agricultural pursuits." (Sears Gen.)

He died of apoplexy on Sunday morning, Nov. 24, 1816, aged 83 years.

He was greatly beloved, and his funeral was largely attended, his body being borne to the grave on a bier carried by four of his old neighbors.

In his Will he devised to his children some $15000.

His house stood till 1848, when it was taken down.

"He enlisted in the old French war, and joined the expedition under Abercrombie, against Ticonderoga and Crown Point, then in possession of the French under Montcalm. Abercrombie without waiting for his artillery, made a brave but imprudent assault upon the fortress of the former place.

The result was disastrous. His troops were mowed down in ranks before the guns of the fort. Sears used to describe the horrors of the carnage, and his own wonderful preservation. 'Three times we were marched up in front of those guns, and each time, the men on my right and on my left were cut down, and I was left standing alone.' The hardships of the campaign were great, but he survived them, and returned to Sandisfield, but died in middle life in consequence of them." (Sears Gen.)

Elkanah Sears lived in the East Precinct of Yarmouth, now East Dennis. He served in Lt. Micajah Sears' Co., and marched on the alarm at Dartmouth and Falmouth, Sept. 6, 1778, was on duty 3 days.

In the fall of 1819, he with his son William, set out some cranberry vines at Flax Pond, now called Scargo Lake, in Dennis, and was the pioneer in the large and profitable business of cranberry raising.

Some years later "Henry Hall of Dennis, having a marshy lot which produced some fine berries, was led to follow the experiment of transplanting some of the vines to another part of the same swamp, and the experiment proving a success, he and others continued their efforts in the same direction. But it took many years of careful study, and laborious and costly experiment to ascertain the processes, soil and conditions necessary to success."

"In 1677, to appease the wrath of Charles II, who was angry with Massachusetts Colony for coining 'Pine Tree shillings,' the General Court ordered a present to be sent to him of 'ten barrels of cranberries, two hogsheads of samp, and three thousand cod fish,' luxuries which it was thought would soften the ire of an angry monarch."

" Capt. John Sears will long be remembered on Cape Cod in connection with his invention of the process of making salt by solar evaporation.

" In 1776, he constructed a vat, one hundred feet long, and ten feet wide.

" Rafters were fixed over it, and shutters contrived to move up and down, that the vat might be covered when it rained, and exposed to the sun in fair weather. But the works were leaky, and the first year he obtained but eight bushels of salt. He was ridiculed by his neighbors, and his invention was styled "Sears' Folly." Capt. Sears persevered, the works were made tight, and the second year thirty bushels of salt were obtained. In this and the third year the salt water was poured into the vats from buckets, a tedious and laborious operation. In the fourth year he rigged a pump, procured from the wreck of the British man-of-war 'Somerset,' which had been cast away on the Cape; it was worked by hand, which was still great labor. In 1785, at the suggestion of Maj. Nathaniel Freeman of Harwich, Capt. Sears contrived a pump to be worked by wind, thus greatly abridging the labor. Covers to move on rollers were invented by Reuben Sears, a carpenter of Harwich, and Capt. Sears was further assisted in the improvement of the works by Capt. William Crowell, Capt. Christopher Crowell and Capt. Edward Sears of Dennis. These persons assigning to him their right and title in the invention, he applied for a patent, which he obtained in 1799.

* Incidentally to this industry, the manufacture of Glauber Salts, once much used in medicine, became an important branch of the business. Rev. Ephraim Briggs of Chatham, a skillful chemist, greatly improved the process of manufacture.

"The salt business was for many years of great value and importance to Barnstable county. In 1832 there were in the county 1425000 feet of vats, producing 358000 bushels, but in 1834 the industry was checked by the reduction of the duty. The developement of the Salt Springs in New York and elsewhere served to make the business unprofitable, and there are now (1887) few works standing and in operation."

Like many other inventive geniuses, Capt. Sears had fits of abstraction, and his neighbors gave him the nickname of "Sleepy John," which he held till the success of his invention caused it to be displaced by that of "Salt John."

He once undertook to build an Orrery, and rigged up an old cart-wheel, to the spokes of which he affixed his planets. This was hung up over the door of his shop, in which he used to fasten himself when at work on his hobbies.

One day his wife wishing to enter the shop forced the door, when the contrivance fell upon her, injuring her severly. When asked what was the matter with her, a neighbor said, "John Sears earth fell on her."

He was in Lt. Micajah Sears' Co., and served 3 days from Sept. 6, 1778, on the alarm at Dartmouth and Falmouth; and as sergt. in Capt. Elisha Hedge's Co., in Col. Freeman's Reg., Sept. 13 to 18, 1778; 52 miles travel.

Reuben Sears lived in that part of Harwich, now Brewster, and was chosen Surveyor of Highways in 1786. He was carpenter and builder of salt-works, and was of great assistance to Capt. John Sears in carrying out his invention of salt-pans and covers. He built for another person the house in Brewster in which he afterwards lived; the thumb latch on the front door bears the date of 1770. He is said to have reported at Plymouth, for duty during the Rev. War, "walking the distance, 40 miles, in one day, carrying his gun and equipments, and a bushel of corn in a sack;" was in Capt. Benjamin Berry's Co., on the alarm at Bedford and Falmouth, Sept. 7, 1778, 7 days service, and 112 miles travel.

He was a staunch member of the old church, and when Rev. Mr. Simpkins promulgated his Unitarian doctrines, he demurred, and said, "if that be your doctrine, I worship here no longer," and turning to his children, bade them gather up his books and cushions, and left the church to return no more.

Late in life his daughter Abigail induced him to be baptized by immersion, and he was with others, admitted into fellowship with the church at the water's edge; not understanding the proceeding, he did not consider himself a member at first, and soon after, not liking the doctrines of close fellowship, etc., he left and went to the Methodists.

His death was sudden and unexpected. He had been working in his garden on an Easterly day, and in the evening, complaining of feeling unwell, he had his bed removed into the parlor. His daughter went for some hot water to warm his feet, which he said were cold, but before she returned he was dead.

He was a very estimable man, and his brother, Ebenezer was wont to say,
"Reuben is a saint on earth."
